

Katy King-Goldberg

Skills and Experience

Katy has a long-term commitment to community based organizations and asset based community development. To ensure good public policy by engaging those affected, she has worked to demystify institutions, particularly government and large organizations, for the parents, families and community members involved. She believes in teaching tolerance by example and creating settings in which diverse individuals are able to find common ground. In all her work, she incorporates common sense, generosity of spirit, and a sense of humor. Katy brings:

Extensive background in working with diverse populations and a variety of community groups including:

- Technical assistance, training, planning and consultation for geographically and ethnically diverse communities representing urban and rural populations.
- Facilitating, interviewing, and conducting surveys with projects that involve diverse populations.

Extensive experience with public policy and advocacy at both local and state level including:

- Organizing and encouraging citizen participation from all sectors.
- Developing, coordinating and tracking legislation regarding child abuse prevention, intervention and treatment, children's health access and family support.
- Developing grassroots advocacy trainings for communities interested in improving children's health and education at a local and statewide level.

Skills needed to organize dynamic, energizing convenings, institutes, and conferences, which have included:

- Planning and organizing statewide meetings on children's issues across disciplines.
- Developing regional policy convenings for foundations in California. Consulting and facilitating statewide educational institutes.

Experience designing creative forums, workshops and trainings, including:

- Organizing large and small meetings for problem-solving, planning, and informational forums.
- Developing numerous trainings and workshops for community groups.
